

Do you OR SOMEONE YOU KNOW want a free one-year subscription to the blog (because, for various reasons, you, or the one you know, cannot afford it)? I STILL HAVE FREE MEMBERSHIPS TO GIVE OUT. Please ask or encourage someone you know to ask.

Here is the original announcement from a couple of weeks ago, with instructions about how to obtain one.

Thanks to the incredible generosity of members of the blog, I am happy to announce that there are a limited number of free one-year memberships available. These have been donated for a single purpose: to allow those who cannot afford the annual membership fee to participate on the blog for a year. I will assign these memberships strictly on the honor system: if you truly cannot afford the membership fee, but very much want to have full access to the blog, then please contact me.

Do NOT reply here, on the blog, as a comment. Send me a separate email, privately, at behrman@email.unc.edu. In your email, let me know your situation (why you would like to take advantage of this offer) and provide me with the following information:

- 1) Your first and last name.
- 2) Your preferred personal email.
- 3) Your preferred user name (no spaces).
- 4) Your preferred password (should be 8 or more characters, no spaces).

The donors will remain anonymous, but here let me publicly extend my heartfelt thanks for such kind and generous donations to help others.
